CONSTRUCTION LAW

Our construction law attorneys are dedicated to representing members of the construction industry. We maintain an exclusive relationship with the construction industry and do not represent developers, homeowner associations and other parties in legal actions against construction professionals.

- Design and Construction Defects
- Extra Work Claims
- Differing Site Conditions
- Construction Delays and Disruptions
- Payment and Performance Bond Disputes
- Construction Liens and Payment Disputes
- Breach of Contract Claims

Construction claims typically involve complex and overlapping issues requiring an in-depth knowledge of both the law and the industry. The attorneys at Taylor Day help clients navigate complex laws, procedures, and legal concepts. We provide a personalized analysis to each client to ensure that they have a full understanding of their case. We are also familiar with the industry's products, services and operations allowing us to evaluate claims early on to determine potential exposure and liability. In each case that we handle, our lawyers carefully outline the options available so that clients have the information they need to make sound and informed decisions.

When construction disputes arise, our goal is to help clients resolve the dispute at the earliest possible stage so that business relationships can be preserved and projects can be completed. If a business resolution cannot be achieved, our lawyers are fully prepared to litigate the matter in court. We are seasoned trial lawyers with a track record of success advocating for construction industry clients in both bench and jury settings.

RECOGNIZED LEADERS

The lawyers in our construction law practice are recognized leaders in their field. Two of our shareholders, Reed W. Grimm and Christopher J. Mueller, are Board Certified in Construction Law by the Florida Bar Board of Legal Specialization and Education. They were both also named 2016 "Super Lawyers" by Florida Super Lawyers. Our firm also holds active memberships in construction industry associations, including the Northeast Florida Builders Association and the Associated Builders and Contractors (ABC) national trade association. Our attorneys offer a wealth of specialized construction law expertise to our clients and are directly involved in each case at every stage of the legal process.

REED GRIMM

Reed prides himself on being able to understand each client's focus, concern, and priorities without losing sight of the big picture. His prior experience as an Assistant State Attorney gives him sought-after trial experience and insight when working on litigation cases. Currently, Reed focuses his practice in construction law, commercial and business litigation, transportation law, bad faith and extra-contractual insurance litigation, and real property and title insurance litigation.

CHRISTOPHER MUELLER

During Chris's career, he has worked with general contractors, sureties, subcontractors and specialty trade contractors, product manufacturers, architects, and engineers in matters ranging from defective construction or design, delays, contract disputes, lien and payment disputes, and construction-site personal injury. He also lectures on a variety of construction topics for clients and industry groups.
